Tokubetsu Junmai: Refined, Elegant, and Special.

A premium twist on classic Junmai, Tokubetsu Junmai is brewed with either highly polished rice or special brewing methods that set it apart. It offers a clean, well-balanced flavor with subtle umami, gentle acidity, and a smooth, slightly dry finish.

More delicate than regular Junmai but still rich in character, it's excellent warm or chilled, and pairs beautifully with grilled fish, roasted vegetables, or lightly seasoned dishes.

Junmai Ginjo: Smooth, Light, and Fruity.

Here, the rice is polished more (at least 40% of each grain is milled away). This results in a cleaner, more elegant flavor, with gentle fruity and floral notes.

Junmai Ginjo is often served chilled, and goes beautifully with lighter dishes like sashimi or grilled vegetables.

Junmai Daiginjo: Delicate, Refined, and Aromatic.

This is the most premium style among Junmai sakes. The rice is polished even more (at least 50% milled away), and it's brewed with extra care. Expect a silky texture, complex aroma, and subtle fruity flavors like melon or apple. Best enjoyed cold, often on its own or with delicate cuisine to appreciate its elegance.
